ASSESSMENT AND THERAPY ASSOCIATES OF GRAND FORKS (ATAGF), PLLC PATIENT SERVICES AGREEMENT

Welcome to our practice. This document (the Agreement) contains important information about our professional services and business policies. It also contains summary information about the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), a federal law that provides privacy protections and patient rights with regard to the use and disclosure of your Protected Health Information (PHI) used for the purpose of treatment, payment, and health care operations. HIPAA requires that we provide you with a Notice of Privacy Practices (the Notice) for use and disclosure of PHI for treatment, payment and health care operations.

The Notice, which is attached to this Agreement, explains HIPAA and its application to your personal health information in greater detail. The law requires that we obtain your signature acknowledging we provided you with this information at the end of this session. Although these documents are long and sometimes complex, it is very important that you read them carefully before your session. You and your provider can discuss any questions you have about the procedures at that time. When you sign this document, it will also represent an agreement between you, ATAGF, and your provider.

YOUR PROVIDER

Your provider is a Licensed Psychologist, Psychology Resident, a Licensed Professional Clinical Counselor (LPCC), or a Licensed Independent Clinical Social Worker (LICSW). Individuals who are Licensed Psychologists have a Ph.D. in Clinical or Counseling Psychology and have completed the requirements for licensure as a psychologist in the state of North Dakota. Individuals who are Psychology Residents have a Ph.D. in Clinical or Counseling Psychology and are working toward completing the requirements for licensure as a psychologist in the State of North Dakota. Psychology Residents are supervised by a Licensed Psychologist in our practice and will provide you with the name of his or her supervisor during the initial session. Individuals who are LPCCs have a Master's degree in Counseling and have completed the requirements for licensure as a counselor in the state of North Dakota. Individuals who are LICSWs have a Master's degree in Social Work and have completed the requirements for licensure as social workers in the state of North Dakota.

PSYCHOLOGICAL SERVICES

You are likely coming to ATAGF for psychotherapy, psychological testing, or both. Psychotherapy is not easily described in general statements. It varies depending on the personalities of the provider and patient and the particular problems you are experiencing. There are many different methods we may use to deal with the problems you hope to address. Psychotherapy is not like a medical doctor visit. Instead, it calls for a very active effort on your part. In order for therapy to be most successful, you will have to work on things you and your provider talk about both during your sessions and at home.

Psychotherapy can have benefits and risks. Since therapy often involves discussing unpleasant aspects of your life, you may experience uncomfortable feelings like sadness, guilt, anger, frustration, loneliness, and helplessness. On the other hand, psychotherapy has also been shown to have many benefits. Therapy often leads to better relationships, solutions to specific problems, and significant reductions in feelings of distress. Yet, there are no guarantees of what you will experience.

The first few sessions with your provider will involve an evaluation of your needs. Part of this evaluation may involve completing psychological testing with your psychologist/psychology resident or with a psychology technician (who is supervised by a licensed psychologist). By the end of the evaluation, your provider will be able to offer you some first impressions of what your work together will include. There may also be a treatment plan to follow which may include referrals to other providers for services (such as psychotherapy and/or other treatment recommendations). You should evaluate this information along with your own opinions of whether you feel comfortable working with these providers. Therapy involves a large commitment of time, money, and energy, so you should be very careful about the provider you select. If you have questions about our procedures at ATAGF, you should discuss them with your provider whenever they arise. If your doubts persist, your provider will be happy to help you set up a meeting with another mental health professional for a second opinion.

MEETINGS

Our providers normally conduct an evaluation during the first session that typically consists of answering questions. During this time, you and the provider can both decide if he/she is the best person to provide the services you need in order to meet your treatment goals. If psychotherapy is begun, your provider will usually schedule one 45-minute session (one appointment hour of 45 minutes duration) per week at a time you agree on, although some sessions may be shorter / longer or more / less frequent. If you are coming for psychological testing, this testing is likely to be conducted in several different sessions. Your provider will be able to discuss his/her plan for testing with you after the initial session.

Once an appointment hour is scheduled, you are asked to provide 24 hours [1 day] advance notice of cancellation if you are unable to make it to your appointment. Although ATAGF provides reminder calls or SMS (text) messages for appointment times as a courtesy, it is your responsibility to know when you are scheduled to meet with your provider. Given reminder calls or SMS (text) messages can be made less than 24 hours in advance, if you cancel when you get your reminder, it is likely that your cancellation will be considered a late cancellation/no-show. After two late cancellations and/or no-shows, ATAGF providers reserve the right to remove you from a regular spot in their schedules and speak with you prior to scheduling additional appointments to determine your commitment to therapy and/or the psychological evaluation.

PROFESSIONAL FEES

The fees involved for services at ATAGF depend upon the particular service and type of provider involved. Please contact ATAGF administrative staff or speak with your provider for more information about fees for the services provided to you. In addition to weekly appointments, ATAGF providers may charge for other professional services you may need, although the provider will break down the hourly cost if he/she works for periods of less than one hour. Other services may include but are not limited to telephone conversations lasting longer than 5 minutes, consulting with other professionals with your permission, preparation of records or treatment summaries, and the time spent performing any other service you may request of your provider. If you become involved in legal proceedings that require your provider's participation, you will be expected to pay for all of your provider's professional time, including preparation and transportation costs, even if your provider is called to testify by another party. Because of the difficulty of legal involvement, ATAGF providers charge more than the hourly rate for preparation and attendance at any legal proceeding. You are encouraged to discuss this fee with your providers prior to any legal involvement.

CONTACTING YOUR PROVIDER

Due to the work schedules of our providers, they are often not immediately available by telephone. Although ATAGF providers are usually in the office between 8 AM and 5 PM these hours vary based upon the individual provider with whom you are working. Please discuss your provider's office hours with him/her. Your provider probably will not be available when he/she is with a patient. The telephone is answered by an administrative assistant 8am to 8pm Monday through Thursday and from 8am to 5pm on Friday. These administrative assistants know where to reach your provider and may inform you when he or she is available to speak with you.

Your provider will make every effort to return your call on the same day you make it, with the exception of evenings, weekends, and holidays. If you are difficult to reach, please inform ATAGF administrative assistants of times when you will be available. If you are unable to reach your provider and feel that you cannot wait for him/her to return your call, it is advised you call 911, go to your local Emergency Room, call the 24-hour crisis line at Northeast Human Service Center at (701) 775-0525, or call the University of North Dakota (UND) Crisis Line at 701-777-2127 if you are a UND student. If your provider will be unavailable for an extended time, he/she will provide you with the name of a colleague to contact, if necessary. PLEASE NOTE: ATAGF providers do not carry a pager and are not available 24 hours a day. If you believe you may need such crisis services, ATAGF may not be the best practice for you.

LIMITS ON CONFIDENTIALITY

The law protects the privacy of all communications between a patient and a provider. In most situations, we can only release information about your treatment to others if you sign a written authorization form that meets certain legal requirements imposed by HIPAA. There are other situations that require you to provide written, advance consent. Your signature on this Agreement provides consent for those activities, as follows:

- Your provider may occasionally find it helpful to consult other health and mental health professionals about a case. During a consultation, he/she makes every effort to avoid revealing the identity of the patient. The other professionals are also legally bound to keep the information confidential. If you don't object, your provider will not tell you about these consultations unless he/she feels it is important to your work together. Your provider will note consultations in your Clinical Record (which is called "PHI" in our Notice of Privacy Practices attached to this Agreement).
- You should be aware ATAGF providers practice with other mental health professionals and that we employ administrative staff. In most cases, we need to share protected information with these individuals for both clinical and administrative purposes, such as scheduling, billing, and quality assurance. All of the mental health professionals are bound by the same rules of confidentiality. All staff members have been given training about protecting your privacy and have agreed not to release any information outside of the practice without the permission of a professional staff member.
- We also have contracts with various entities that enable us to perform treatment, billing, and practice management operations. As required by HIPAA, we have formal business associate contracts with these businesses, in which they promise to maintain the confidentiality of this data except as specifically allowed in the contract or otherwise required by law. If you wish, we can provide you with the names of these organizations and/or a blank copy of this contract.
- Disclosures required by health insurers or to collect overdue fees are discussed elsewhere in this Agreement.
- If a patient threatens to seriously harm himself/herself or someone else, your provider or ATAGF staff may take actions to prevent this, including seeking hospitalization for him/her, notifying law enforcement, or contacting family members or others who can help provide protection.

There are some situations where ATAGF is permitted or required to disclose information without either your consent or authorization:

- If you are involved in a court proceeding and a request is made for information concerning your evaluation, diagnosis and treatment, such information is protected by the provider-patient privilege law. ATAGF providers cannot provide any information without your written authorization or a court order. If you are involved in or contemplating litigation, you should consult with your attorney to determine whether a court would be likely to order your provider to disclose information.
- If a government agency is requesting the information for health oversight activities, your provider may be required to provide it for them.
- If a patient files a complaint or lawsuit against an employee of ATAGF, the ATAGF employee may disclose relevant information regarding that patient in order to defend him or herself.
- If a patient files a worker's compensation claim, ATAGF must, upon appropriate request, provide appropriate information including a copy of the patient's record or other information concerning mental health care services, to the North Dakota Worker's Compensation Bureau.

There are some situations in which an ATAGF provider is legally obligated to take actions, which we believe are necessary to attempt to protect others from harm and we may have to reveal some information about a patient's treatment.

- If we have reason to suspect that a child is abused or neglected, the law requires that we file a report with the Department of Human Services. Once such a report is filed, we may be required to provide additional information.

- If we have knowledge of or reasonable cause to suspect that an adult with developmental disabilities or mental illness is abused, neglected, or exploited, the law requires that we report such information to the Protection and Advocacy Project. Once such a report is filed, we may be required to provide additional information.
- If a patient threatens serious physical harm to an identifiable victim, we may take actions to protect the victim. These actions may include notifying the potential victim, contacting the police, or seeking hospitalization for the patient.

If such a situation arises, your provider will make every effort to fully discuss it with you before taking any action and will limit disclosure to what is necessary. Although this written summary of exceptions to confidentiality should prove helpful in informing you about potential problems, it is important you and your provider discuss any questions or concerns you may have now or in the future. The laws governing confidentiality can be complex, and your provider is not an attorney. In situations where specific advice is required, formal legal advice may be needed.

PROFESSIONAL RECORDS

The laws and standards of your provider's profession require that he/she keep Protected Health Information about you in your Clinical Record. You may examine and/or receive a copy of your Clinical Record (or a summary or explanation of the information contained in your Clinical Record if agreed by you in advance), if you request it in writing. Because these are professional records, they can be misinterpreted and/or upsetting to untrained readers. For this reason, ATAGF recommends that you initially review them in your provider's presence or have them forwarded to another mental health professional so you can discuss the contents. In most circumstances, ATAGF can charge a copying fee of $20 per page for the first 25 pages, 75 cents per page for any pages beyond twenty-five and includes administrative, document retrieval, and postage charges. There may be instances in which your provider does not believe reviewing your record is in your best interest, and this will be discussed with you should this occur.

PATIENT RIGHTS

HIPAA provides you with several new or expanded rights with regard to your Clinical Record and disclosures of protected health information. These rights include requesting that ATAGF amends your record; requesting restrictions on what information from your Clinical Record is disclosed to others; requesting an accounting of most disclosures of protected health information that you have neither consented to nor authorized; determining the location to which protected information disclosures are sent; having any complaints you make about ATAGF policies and procedures recorded in your records; and the right to a paper copy of this Agreement, the attached Notice form, and ATAGF privacy policies and procedures. Your provider or an ATAGF administrative assistant is happy to discuss any rights with you.

MINORS & PARENTS

Patients under 18 years of age who are not emancipated and their guardians should be aware the law may allow guardians to examine their child's treatment records unless your provider decides that such access is likely to injure the child or the legal guardian and the child's provider agree otherwise. Because privacy in psychotherapy is often crucial to successful progress, particularly with teenagers, it is sometimes ATAGF's policy to request an agreement from guardians that they consent to give up their access to the child's records. If they agree, during treatment, the provider will provide them only with general information about the progress of the child's treatment, and his/her attendance at scheduled sessions. The provider may also provide guardians with a summary of their child's treatment when it is complete. Any other communication will require the child's Authorization, unless the provider feels the child is in danger or is a danger to someone else, in which case, the provider will notify the guardians of his/her concern. Before giving guardians any information, the provider will discuss the matter with the child, if possible, and do his/her best to handle any objections the child may have.

RECORDING

Your sessions with any ATAGF provider may not be recorded in any way by any party unless agreed to in writing by mutual consent (between you/your guardian and your ATAGF provider). The end date of this mutual consent will be included in the written agreement. A copy of this written agreement will be maintained in your medical record.

APPOINTMENT REMINDERS

ATAGF utilizes electronic SMS messaging (texting) for appointment reminders which may include phone calls with voicemail. It is your responsibility to ensure that contact information is updated with ATAGF staff and that failure to do so may result in someone other than yourself receiving the appointment reminder. You may also choose to opt out of text messaging reminders. In order to do so, please submit the request to ATAGF staff in writing and appointment reminders will be handled accordingly.

BILLING AND PAYMENTS

You will be expected to pay for each session at the time it is held, unless you and your provider agree otherwise or unless you have insurance coverage that requires another arrangement. Credit card payments and similar arrangements are more confidential than checks (with names on them), as we deposit these checks into our banking account. Payment schedules for other professional services will be agreed to when they are requested. In circumstances of unusual financial hardship, your provider may be willing to negotiate a fee adjustment (if allowed by managed care contracts) or payment plan.

If you would like someone other than yourself to pay your bill at ATAGF (such as parent of someone over the age of 18), we need additional information from you. We ask you to provide contact information for the individual responsible for the account and provide your written authorization for us to speak with this individual about matters pertaining to your bill. Additional information is included in the section titled Payment of Outstanding Balances.

If your account has not been paid for more than 60 days and arrangements for payment have not been agreed upon, ATAGF has the option of using legal means to secure the payment. This may involve hiring a collection agency (i.e., United Accounts) or going through small claims court which will require your provider to disclose otherwise confidential information. In most collection situations, the only information ATAGF releases regarding a patient's treatment is his/her name, the nature of services provided, and the amount due. If such legal action is necessary, its costs will be included in the claim.

If your account has not been paid for more than 60 days and arrangements for payment have not been agreed upon or if the arrangements have not been followed, your individual provider may speak with you about a referral to another agency or individual provider who is able to provide more cost-effective services to you.

INSURANCE REIMBURSEMENT

In order for you and your provider to set realistic treatment goals and priorities, it is important to evaluate what resources you have available to pay for your treatment. If you have a health insurance policy, it will usually provide some coverage for mental health treatment. ATAGF administrative assistants and your provider will fill out forms and provide you with whatever assistance he/she can in helping you receive the benefits to which you are entitled; however, you (not your insurance company) are responsible for full payment of your provider's fees. It is very important that you find out exactly what mental health services your insurance policy covers.

You should carefully read the section in your insurance coverage booklet that describes mental health services. If you have questions about the coverage, call your plan administrator. Of course, ATAGF administrative staff will provide you with whatever information they can based on their experience and will be happy to help you in understanding the information you receive from your insurance company. If it is necessary to clear confusion, ATAGF administrative staff will be willing to call the company on your behalf.

Due to the rising costs of health care, insurance benefits have increasingly become more complex. It is sometimes difficult to determine exactly how much mental health coverage is available. "Managed Health Care" plans such as HMOs and PPOs often require authorization before they provide reimbursement for mental health services. These plans are often limited to short-term treatment approaches designed to work out specific problems that interfere with a person's usual level of functioning. It may be necessary to seek approval for more therapy after a certain number of sessions. Although much can be accomplished in short-term therapy, some patients feel that they need more services after insurance benefits end. Some managed care plans will not allow providers to provide services to you once your benefits end. If this is the case, your provider will do his/her best to find another provider who will help you continue your psychotherapy.

You should also be aware that your contract with your health insurance company requires that ATAGF provides it with information relevant to the services that your provider offers to you. Your provider is required to provide a clinical diagnosis. Sometimes your provider is required to provide additional clinical information such as treatment plans or summaries, or copies of your entire clinical record. In such situations, your provider will make every effort to release only the minimum information about you that is necessary for the purpose requested. This information will become part of the insurance company files and will probably be stored in a computer. Although all insurance companies claim to keep such information confidential, ATAGF has no control over what they do with it once it is in their hands. In some cases, they may share the information with a national medical information databank. Your provider will provide you with a copy of any report he/she submits, if you request it in writing. By signing this Agreement, you agree that ATAGF can provide requested information to your carrier.

Once we have all the information about your insurance coverage, you and your provider will discuss what you can expect to accomplish with the benefits that are available and what will happen if they run out before you feel ready to end your sessions. It is important to remember that you always have the right to pay for services yourself to avoid the problems described above unless prohibited by contract.

EMAIL INFORMED CONSENT

Email can be a useful method of correspondence for clients. Transmitting confidential information by email can create a number of risks, both general and specific that clients need to be aware of if they choose this method of correspondence.

A. General email risks include but are not limited to the following:

- Email can be immediately broadcasted worldwide and received by many intended and unintended recipients;
- Recipients can forward email messages to other recipients without the original sender's permission or knowledge;
- Users can easily send an email to the incorrect address;
- Email is easier to falsify than handwritten or signed documents;
- Backup copies of email may exist even after the sender or recipient has deleted his or her copy;
- Without the benefit of face-to-face interaction, emails can be misinterpreted in tone and meaning.

B. Specific email risks include but are not limited to the following:

- Email containing information pertaining to a client's diagnosis and/or treatment must be included in the client's medical record. Thus, all individuals who have access to the medical record will have access to the email messages;
- If you are sending your emails from your employer's computer, your employer does have access to your emails;
- While it is against the law to discriminate, an employer who has access to your email could use the information to discriminate against the employee. Additionally, the employee could suffer social stigma from a workplace disclosure;
- Insurance companies who learn of your PHI information could deny you coverage;
- Although therapists and ATAGF staff will endeavor to read and respond to email correspondence promptly, they cannot guarantee that any particular email message will be read and responded to within any particular time frame.

C. Conditions for use of email

All email messages sent or received that concern your diagnosis or treatment or that are a part of your medical record will be treated as part of your PHI. Reasonable means will be used to protect the security and confidentiality of the email. Because of the risk outlined above, the security and confidentiality of email cannot be guaranteed.

Your consent to email correspondence includes your understanding of the following conditions:

- All emails to and from you concerning your protected health information (PHI) will be a part of your file and can be viewed by health care, insurance providers, and ATAGF office support staff.
- Your email messages may be forwarded within ATAGF as necessary for diagnosis, treatment, and reimbursement. However, they will not be forwarded outside the office without your consent or as required by law.
- Though all efforts will be made to respond promptly, this may not be the case. Because the response cannot be guaranteed please do not use email in a medical emergency.
- You are responsible for following up with the therapist or support staff if you have not received a response.
- Medical information is sensitive and unauthorized disclosure can be damaging. You should not use email for communications concerning diagnosis or treatment of AIDS/HIV infection, other sexually transmittable diseases, mental health, developmental disability, or substance abuse issues. It is your right, however, to choose to communicate about this information if you desire.
- Since employers do not observe an employee's right to privacy in their email system, you should not use their employer's email system to transmit or receive confidential emails.
- ATAGF will take reasonable steps to ensure that all information shared through emails is kept private and confidential. However, ATAGF is not liable for improper disclosure of confidential information that is not a result of our negligence or misconduct.
- If you consent to the use of email, you are responsible for informing your therapist of any type of information that you do not want sent to you by email.
- You are responsible for protecting your password and access to your email account and any email you send or receive from ATAGF to ensure your confidentiality. Your therapist cannot be held liable if there is a breach of confidentiality caused by a breach in your account security.
- Any email that you send that discusses your diagnosis or treatment constitutes informed consent to the information being transmitted. If you wish to discontinue emailing information, you must submit a written notification that you wish to discontinue or an email informing your therapist that you are withdrawing consent to email information.

Our practice is dedicated to maintaining the privacy of your personal health information as part of providing professional care. We are also required by law to keep your information private. These laws are complicated, but we must give you this important information. This is a shorter version of the attached, full, legally required notice of privacy practices. Please talk to our privacy officer (see the end of this form) about any questions or problems.

How we use and disclose your protected health information with your consent

We will use the information we collect about you mainly to provide you with treatment, to arrange payment for our services, and for some other business activities that are called, in the law, health care operations (e.g., billing for services). After you have read this notice we will ask you to sign a consent form to let us use and share your information in these ways. If you do not consent and sign this form, we cannot treat you. If we want to use or send, share, or release your information for other purposes, we will discuss this with you and ask you to sign an authorization form to allow this. We send appointment reminders that include phone calls (with voicemails) or SMS messaging (texting). If this is a problem for you, please notify us, and you can no longer receive these reminders.

Disclosing your health information without your consent: There are times when the laws require us to use or share your information. For example:

1. When there is a serious threat to your or another's health and safety or to the public. We will only share information with persons who are able to help prevent or reduce the threat.
2. When we are required to do so by lawsuits and other legal or court proceedings.
3. If a law enforcement official requires us to do so.
4. For workers' compensation and similar benefit programs.

There are some other rare situations. They are described in the longer version of our notice of privacy practices (please ask for a copy).

Your rights regarding your health information

1. You can ask us to communicate with you in a particular way or at a certain place that is more private for you. For example, you can ask us to call you at home, and not at work, to schedule or cancel an appointment. We will try our best to do as you ask.
2. You can ask us to limit what we tell people involved in your care or the payment for your care, such as family members and friends.
3. You have the right to look at the health information we have about you, such as your medical and billing records. You can get a copy of these records, but we may charge you for it. Contact our privacy officer to arrange how to see your records. See below.
4. If you believe that the information in your records is incorrect or missing something important, you can ask us to make additions to your records to correct the situation. You have to make this request in writing and send it to our privacy officer. You must also tell us the reasons you want to make the changes.
5. You have the right to a copy of this notice. If we change this notice, we will post the new version in our waiting area, and you can always get a copy of it from the Privacy Officer.
6. You have the right to file a complaint if you believe your privacy rights have been violated. You can file a complaint with our privacy officer and with the Secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. All complaints must be in writing. Filing a complaint will not change the health care we provide to you in any way.
7. You have the right to restrict certain disclosures of PHI to a health plan when you pay out-of-pocket in full for our services.
8. You have a right to be notified if there is a breach involving your PHI, if your PHI has not been encrypted to government standards; and our risk assessment fails to determine there is a low probability your PHI has been compromised.
9. You have the right to decide you would not like to be included in fundraising communications that we may send out.

Your choices regarding your health information: You also have some choices regarding whether or not we share your information. For example, whether or not we tell family or friends about your health care, releasing Psychotherapy Notes, or whether or not you are contacted for fundraising efforts. Please see the long version of our Notice of Privacy Practice for additional information.

Also, you may have other rights that are granted to you by the laws of our state, and these may be the same as or different from the rights described above. We will be happy to discuss these situations with you now or as they arise. If you have any questions regarding this notice or our health information privacy policies, please contact our privacy officer, who is Tiram Gamliel, LPCC and can be reached by phone at (701) 780-6821. The effective date of this notice is September 23, 2013. It was updated on April 26, 2019.
